Sebastopol City Council Meeting September 5, 2017 – Synopsis and Commentary

Please accept my apologies for not covering the September 5th council meeting. My presence is required in Bizzaro, the capital of Berserkistan at a symposium where they consider me an expert on:

- The joys of walking around with an ungrounded aluminum foil hat.
- How sodium vapor is so much cheaper than LED lighting and less harmful to the environment.
- How to solve the parking problems in your town by eliminating parking.
- How PG&E smart meters are watching everything you are doing while rearranging your DNA.
- Just what kind of mind control drugs are in those chemtrails (aka contrails).
- How to form small but powerful groups to control your city council without using the above.
